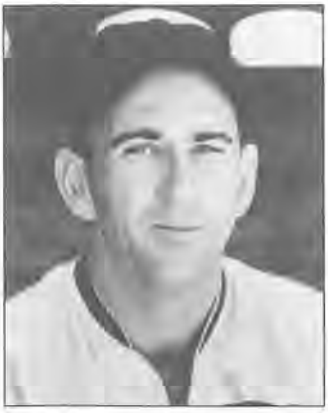
IN MEMORY OF LUKE APPLING



The Chicago White Sox honor the memory of Lucius Benjamin (Luke) Appling, Jr., who passed away on January 3, 1991 at age 83. The Hall of Fame shortstop, a seven-time all-star and two-time American League batting champion, played his entire 20-year career with the White Sox.

"It's impossible to view highlights of great White Sox teams without seeing No. 4, Luke Appling," said White Sox Senior Vice President of Marketing and Broadcasting Rob Gallas. "He was the first one of a fine line of great White Sox shortstops. We, as all White Sox fans, were deeply saddened by his passing and will miss him very much."

Appling joined the White Sox in 1930 as a fledgling infielder with a powerful, but somewhat inaccurate throwing arm. Under the positive influence of manager Jimmy Dykes, Appling gained confidence and evolved into one of baseball's finest shortstops.

He established shortstop records for games played, double plays, putouts and assists, all of which were later broken by another White Sox shortstop, Luis Aparicio. He led AL shortstops in assists seven times, a record he shares with Aparicio.

Appling still holds nine batting records for the White Sox, who retired his No. 4 on June 7, 1975. The North Carolina native batted over .300 in 16 of his 20 seasons and finished with a .310 lifetime average.

In his greatest year, 1936, Appling led the AL with a .388 batting average, the highest ever by a shortstop. It was also the first batting title won by a White Sox player. Appling collected perhaps his most famous hit in 1982, when at age 75 he slammed a home run off Warren Spahn in an old-timers game at Washington's RFK Stadium.

Known as "Old Aches and Pains" for constantly complaining of physical ailments, Appling was truly one of the game's classic characters. His artful knack for fouling off pitches frustrated two decades of major league pitchers and delighted thousands of souvenir-seeking fans. In 1970, the Chicago chapter of the Baseball Writers of America named Appling the greatest White Sox player ever.

Through the years, the White Sox have had a number of extraordinary shortstops. Luke Appling will always be remembered as the first.

OFFICERS

Chairman

As the White Sox open the 1991 season at the new Comiskey Park, club chairman Jerry Reinsdorf will realize his goal of bringing the most state-of-the-art, accommodating facility in baseball to sports fans in the city of Chicago.

Since heading the limited partnership that purchased the White Sox in January of 1981, Reinsdorf has been increasingly active in the affairs of baseball. He is currently serving his second four-year term as a member of major league baseball's prestigious Executive Council. Reinsdorf recently completed a four-year term as chairman of baseball's Ownership Committee, of which he remains a member, and also serves as a member of the Player Relations Committee.

Reinsdorf expanded his involvement in the professional sports world in February of 1985 by purchasing controlling interest in the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association. As chairman of the Chicago Bulls, Reinsdorf donated one million dollars to the Chicago Park District in January of 1990 to rehabilitate city basketball courts. He has also been instrumental in initiating Chicago White Sox Charities, the newest arm of the baseball organization that raises funds for local charities.

Reinsdorf has devoted most of his time to his athletic interests since his January 1988 completion of employment as chairman of the board of a real estate investment firm he co-founded in the early 1970's. Currently he is a partner in Bojer Financial, Ltd., a land investment company.

In addition to his sports interests, he is also a certified public accountant, an attorney, a specialist in real estate securities, a registered mortgage underwriter and a certified review appraiser. A former member of the board of directors of Shearson Lehman Brothers, Inc. and the Northwestern University Law School Alumni Association, he has served on the boards of numerous other corporations and charities.

Reinsdorf was born on February 25, 1936, in Brooklyn, New York. He graduated from George Washington University in Washington, D.C. prior to receiving a law degree from Northwestern University. Reinsdorf and his wife, the former Martyl Rifkin, have four children: David (March 25, 1962), Susan (January 4, 1965), Michael (March 10, 1967), and Jonathan (December 17, 1969). Reinsdorf resides in Highland Park, Illinois.

Robert Lurie

During 1990, the White Sox family suffered an untimely loss with the death of Robert Lurie at age 48. A White Sox Board Member since 1981, his wise counsel and his exceptional analytical skills were crucial in helping guide the organization through several difficult years.

Bob was one of our most knowledgeable fans and could be found regularly in his seats near first base with his wife and some of his six children enjoying the game of baseball.

His softspoken yet forceful voice will be missed, but not as much as the warmth and humanity he brought to all of us who were fortunate to have known him.

EDDIE EINHORN

Vice Chairman

After 10 years of day-to-day involvement as President and Chief Operating Officer, Eddie Einhorn has become Vice Chairman of the White Sox where, from his office at new Comisky Park, he will continue his involvement with Sox Chairman Jerry Reinsdorf, but will have more time to devote to his other sports and television interests.

In 1989, Einhorn was appointed Television Consultant to the United States Olympic Committee and was responsible for a 200-hour Olympic television package that debuted in 1990. He is also Television Consultant to the International Skating Union, governing body of all world ice skating, and the U.S. Figure Skating Association. Einhorn is also on the Board of Directors of the Chicago Bulls.

Einhorn serves on some of baseball's most important operating committees. He is also a longtime member of the Television Committee and is recognized as the architect of baseball's first billion dollar-plus contract. Einhorn was also instrumental in negotiating the 1990 television deal with CBS-TV and ESPN. He is also the senior American League representative on the Player Development Negotiating Committee which recently concluded a major new agreement with baseball's minor leagues.

Prior to joining law school classmate Jerry Reinsdorf in 1981 to head the limited partnership formed to purchase the White Sox, Einhorn was the executive producer of the "CBS Sports Spectacular." At CBS, he was responsible for over 200 hours of programming per year and won an Emmy Award for the "The Gossamer Albatross, Flight of Imagination" in 1980. Prior to that, Einhorn was the founder and chairman of TVS Television Network, the leading syndicator of sports programming in the 1970's, which was considered responsible for the popularity of college basketball on television.

Einhorn was born January 3, 1936 in Paterson, New Jersey and holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He is a graduate of the Northwestern University School of Law. He and his wife, the former Ann Pelachik, have two children: Jennifer (January 2, 1972) and Jeffrey (September 26, 1974). Einhorn resides in Chicago, Illinois.

HOWARD PIZER

Executive Vice President

As a nine-year business associate of Jerry Reinsdorf, Howard Pizer joined the White Sox in 1981 to handle the transition of the team from former owner Bill Veeck's group to the Reinsdorf-Einhorn group. Pizer has primary responsibility for White Sox business and administrative operations, as well as the club's legal matters.

During the past few years, Pizer's primary focus has been on the necessary steps to create a new Comiskey Park. In connection with this, he has worked closely with the Illinois Sports Facilities Authority. Pizer also set organization-wide administrative policies and procedures, established uniformity in corporate-wide computerization and has been instrumental in initiating an employee relations program. He is also responsible for the overall relationship between Illinois Sportservice, the White Sox concessionaire and Levy Restaurants in conjunction with the operation of the new Stadium Club and Diamond Suites.

Pizer lends his organizational ability to the boards of directors of the Chicago Baseball Cancer Charities and Special Children's Charities, the fund-raising arm of Chicago Special Olympics. He was also instrumental in instituting the White Sox' newest venture, Chicago White Sox Charities.

Pizer was born on October 23, 1941 in Chicago, Illinois and is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He also is a magna cum laude graduate from Northwestern University Law School. He and his wife, the former Sheila Graff, have two children: Jacqueline (April 5, 1968) and Rachel (April 28, 1971). The Pizer family lives in Wilmette, Illinois.

RON SCHUELER

Senior Vice President Major League Operations

Ron Schueler brings 11 years of off-field baseball experience and 13 years of playing service to the Chicago White Sox as he begins his first year as Senior Vice President for Major League Operations. For the last four years prior to joining the Sox, Schueler served as special assistant to Sandy Alderson, the Oakland Athletics' Vice President of Baseball Operations, where he was responsible for evaluating both professional and amateur baseball talent.

Several weeks after joining the White Sox, Schueler established himself as an aggressive trademaker by engineering the deal that brought Tim Raines to the Sox. Cory Snyder and Charlie Hough were additional off-season acquisitions spearheaded by the first-year general manager.

Schueler was selected by Atlanta in the third round, secondary phase, of the January 1967 free agent draft. After five seasons in the minor leagues, the 6-4 right-hander compiled a 40-48 record in eight major-league seasons with Atlanta (1972-73), Philadelphia (1974-76), Minnesota (1977) and Chicago (1978-79).

He ended his playing career with the White Sox in June of 1979 and was hired as pitching coach (1979-81) by Sox manager Don Kessinger to replace Fred Martin. Schueler joined the A's coaching staff as pitching coach from 1982-84 and held the same duties for the Pirates in 1986 prior to joining the A's front office.

Schueler was born on April 18, 1948 in Hays, Kansas. A graduate of Hays High School, he atttended Fort Hays State College prior to being drafted. Ron and his wife, Maureen, have two children: Kacey (17) and Carey (15). The Schueler famiily resides in Chicago, Illinois.

ROB GALLAS

Senior Vice President
Marketing & Broadcasting

Rob Gallas joined the White Sox in September of 1989 and immediately began planning for 1990, the final season in old Comiskey Park Through his innovative promotions and ballpark events, the Sox nearly doubled their attendance total from the previous year, resulting in the biggest single-season turnaround ever in professional sports.

During that incredible 1990 season, Gallas was responsible for the "Turn Back the Clock" promotion that saw Sox players in 1917 replica uniforms. The promotion received national media attention and Gallas was awarded the Outstanding Promotions Program Award from major league baseball promotions directors.

A former group manager of marketing communication and services for a division of Baxter HealthCare Corporation, Gallas began his career as a news and sportswriter with various newspapers in the midwest, including a stint as the White Sox beat writer for the Arlington Heights Daily Herald from 1976 to 1983. He received the Jacob Scher Investigative Reporting Award in 1975 and in 1980 captured UPI's Illinois Newspapers Best Sportswriting Award. In 1981 he became the first non-Chicago writer to become Chairman of the Chicago Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Gallas was born in Chicago, Ill. on January 4, 1951 and grew up in Michigan City, Indiana. A 1973 graduate of the University of Evansville, Gallas and his wife, the former Sharon Levendoski, have two children: Christopher (March 8, 1971) and Jennifer (December 4, 1974). The Gallas family resides in Schaumburg, Illinois.

JACK GOULD

Baseball

Jack Gould joined the White Sox as an investor in 1975 during Bill Veeck's second tenure with the club. He assumed his current role as senior vice president of baseball in 1981 with the Reinsdorf-Einhorn ownership group. Gould is also a member of the White Sox board of directors.

Under Gould's direction, the White Sox began computerizing the gathering of statistical data during the 1981 season, thus bringing the club into the forefront of the industry by making baseball decisions based on computer-generated data. He also oversees the research involved in preparing for potential arbitration cases. In addition, Gould is involved in a number of the arrangements for the club's transfer to Sarasota, Fla. for spring training.

As a bomber pilot for the U.S. Army Air Force during World War II, Gould flew on 35 combat missions in Europe and received several decorations, including the distinguished Flying Cross. As a lieutenant colonel, actor Jimmy Stewart was second in command of his wing. After leaving the military, Gould ran his own mortgage banking firm for 25 years. He is an advocate of youth baseball and served in various administrative capacities for Colt League Baseball in the northern suburbs of Chicago, including coaching duties.

Gould was born in Chicago, Illinois and is a graduate of Chicago's Von Steuben High School and the University of Illinois, where he received a bachelor's degree in accounting. He and his wife, the former Nancy Sebring, have one son, Larry (July 24, 1957). The Gould family lives in Glencoe, Illinois.

TIM BUZARD

Vice President
Finance

After serving five years as controller for the White Sox, Tim Buzard was named Vice President of Finance in December 1985. He is directly responsible for the Sox accounting department, ticket office staff and human resources department. Buzard also handles cash management, data processing and risk managment operations for the team.

Upon his arrival in 1981, Buzard's main priority was developing a detailed budget and long-term accounting plan. He also initiated the automating of the accounting department and assisted in organization-wide computerization.

Buzard holds an accounting degree from the University of Illinois and became a certified public accountant in 1981. He served as a senior accountant for Ernst & Whinney for three years prior to joining the White Sox.

Buzard was born on September 13, 1955 in Evanston, Illinois. A 1978 graduate of the University of Illinois, Buzard and his wife, the former Sandra Taube, have two children: Jacqueline (November 11, 1984) and Kevin (March 21, 1989). The Buzard family resides in Highland Park, Illinois.

TERRY SAVARISE

Stadium Operations

Since 1984, after serving three years in the White Sox accounting department, Terry Savarise has devoted most of his time to designing and developing a new stadium for the White Sox. He was directly responsible for the planning and construction of the new Comiskey Park. Savarise handled the layout and design of all aspects of the ballpark, including the the state-of-the-art features in the sky boxes, press box, stadium club and clubhouse.

He also worked closely with the city of Sarasota in the design and construction of Ed Smith Stadium and Sports Complex, which opened as the club's spring training and minor league complex in February of 1989. Prior to joining the White Sox, Savarise served an internship with the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association in the Cavs' all-star game season of 1980-81. He is an active member of the Stadium Managers' Association and the International Association of Auditorium Managers.

Savarise was born on November 20, 1959 in Cleveland, Ohio. He is a 1981 graduate of Ohio University with bachelor's degrees in accounting and business, followed by a master's degree in sports administration later that same year. Savarise and his wife, the former Tara Sena, have one child: Katherine Mary (September 10, 1988). The Savarise family resides in Highland Park, Illinois.

LARRY MONROE

Vice President
Scouting and Minor
League Operations

A former right-handed pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, Larry Monroe was the Special Assistant to the General Manager and a major-league scout before being appointed to his current position on November 5, 1990. Monroe brings 18 years of experience in the White Sox organization as a player, scout, minor-league instructor and coach to his current post.

A graduate of Forest View High School in Arlington Heights, Illinois, Monroe received all-conference baseball honors three times and all-area baseball honors twice. He was the White Sox number one choice in the June, 1974 free agent draft and made his major league debut with the White Sox on August 23, 1976 in Detroit where he pitched two scoreless, hitless innings.

Monroe was born on June 20, 1956 in Detroit, Michigan. He and his wife, the former Glenna Hamm, have three children: Taylor (October 14, 1983), Allison (March 13, 1985) and Grant (September 29, 1988). The Monroe family lives in Schaumburg, Illinois.

1901 AL Anniversary Flashbacks

The White Sox captured the first American League pennant with a 10-4 loss in Philadelphia on September 21, 1901. With an 83-53 record, the Pale Hose out-distanced their closest runner-up by four games.

In their first season, the White Sox drew 354,350 to the South Side Grounds, 205,071 more than their crosstown rivals, the Cubs, who then known as "Orphans." The White Sox established a season-high attendance figure of 20,000 for a September 8 game versus the Boston Pilgrims. The seating capacity of the South Side Grounds was less than 7,000 at the time.

Promotions during 1901 season: Railway Day for the passenger train workers (July 27); National Union Day (August 3); and Ladies Day (every Wednesday).

Flashbacks

In the 25 City Series games played between the White Sox and Cubs from 1904 until 1942, the Sox held a commanding 19-6 edge. In recent years, the South Siders have continued their winning ways by claiming five of six Windy City Classic games played between 1985-1990 (the game in 1988 at Wrigley Field ended in a tie).

The White Sox 1990 record of 94-68 was the single largest one-year turn around in club history, eclipsing the 1970-71 revival when the ChiSox improved their mark from 56-106 to 79-83.

1990: In his 19th season, the future Hall of Famer carved his name in major-league baseball history once again ... with his second-inning home run off Charlie Hough 8/17 at Texas, the 43-year-old set the career home run record for catchers with 328, surpassing Johnny Bench's 327 ... with that clout, he also established himself as the all-time White Sox home run leader with 187, surpassing Harold Baines' 186 ... led club with 18 roundtrippers on the season, a .378 on-base percentage, 61 walks and shared top honors in batting average with Lance Johnson (.285) ... named to AP, UPI and The Sporting News All-Star Teams ... surpassed Boston total for games played (1,078) 5/2 and notched his 1,200th RBI 8/29 ... had successful arthroscopic surgery on both knees 11/6.

Major League Highlights: The 10-time AL all-star has totaled 192 White Sox home runs, 332 as a catcher and 354 overall, which ranks 42nd on the all-time list ... ranks second to Darrell Evans (60) on the 40-year-old home run list with 50 ... enters '91 campaign having played in 2,278 contests, 1,199 as a member of the ChiSox and 2,041 as a catcher, which ranks second on the all-time list to Bob Boone's 2,225 games caught ... needs eight hits in '91 for 2,200 and eight doubles for 400 ... with 124 career stolen bases, Fisk is the only catcher in modern baseball history to top the century mark in both homers and stolen bases and is just the third catcher in baseball history to collect 300 home runs, 1,000 runs and 1,000 RBI ... has enjoyed enormous success against his former Boston teammates since joining the White Sox in 1981 ... in just 89 games versus the Red Sox, has hit .320 with 27 home runs and 64 RBI ... has appeared in a pair of ALCS (Chicago in '83 and Boston in '75) and one World Series (Boston in '75). 1989: For the second consecutive season had an injury-plagued year ... suffered broken right hand April 10 at Seattle ... fracture occurred over spot of same break that idled him in 1988 ... was sidelined for 44 games (April 11-June 2) ... on June 21 at New York, hit his 307th home run as a catcher, passing former Yankee Yogi Berra as the American League's all-time receiver leader ... reached another milestone versus New York on July 17, rapping his 2,000th career hit off Andy Hawkins ... at Comiskey Park hit .343 in 49 games. 1988: Broken right hand forced him to miss 70 games and shortened another fine season for the veteran catcher ... despite the injury, belted 19 homers, ... notched one homer every 13.3 at bats, the best ratio on the club ... established an American League record for games caught with his 1,807th catching appearance August 19 at Detroit ... celebrated the occasion with his first career five-hit game ... named AL Player of the Week after setting the record ... hit .556 (10-18) for the week with three homers and eight RBI ... collected a pair of two-homer games (April 19 at Seattle and August 17 versus Toronto), the 21st and 22nd of his career ... homered in four consecutive games April 18, 19, 21 and 22. 1987: Achieved several career milestones ... collected 1,000th run batted in at California June 7 with a ninth inning home run, his second roundtripper of the game ... belted his 300th career homer September 5 at Kansas City off Danny Jackson ... at age 39, became the oldest catcher in baseball history and the oldest White Sox player to hit 20 or more home runs in one season ... a pair of homers off American League two-time Cy Young Award winner, Roger Clemens, at Boston August 26 gave Fisk his 20th career two-homer game ... a roundtripper at Boston August 24 was his 100th career shot at historic Fenway Park and his 10th there as a member of the White Sox ... made six starts as the Sox designated hitter, six more at first base ... his career-high 17 GWRBI led the Sox and placed him in a three-way tie for second in the league. 1986: Battled nagging injuries and a virus for much of the season ... injuries included a bruised right wrist suffered when struck by a pitch in spring training and severely jammed thumb that ended his catching duties for the season September 15 ... also missed 11 games with a virus in July ... started the season's first 26 games in left field as the Sox inserted Joel Skinner behind the plate ... made first appearance as a catcher May 9 ... recorded season-long 13-game hitting streak June 10-23, equalling concurrent skein by John Cangelosi and later one by Daryl Boston for the longest on the squad in '86. 1985: Enjoyed the most productive season of his major league career ... career-high totals of 37 home runs and 107 RBI ... the homer total was second in the AL and tied the White Sox single-season record established by Dick Allen in 1972 ... clubbed 33 of the 37 roundtrippers as a catcher, breaking the AL single-season standard of 32 set by Detroit's Lance Parrish in 1982 ... drove in season-high seven runs at Texas September 6, equalling his career single-game high ... blasted his second Comiskey Park roofshot homer against Kansas City's Charlie Leibrandt May 30 ... named the AL's starting catcher in the all-star game when Parrish was scratched due to injury ... named to The Sporting News and UPI postseason AL all-star teams... named league Player of the Week for the week ending June 1 ... equalled career best with 17 stolen bases (1982) ... swiped 100th base of his career May 13 in Chicago against Cleveland ... underwent a rigorous off-season weight training program prior to the '85 season, adding weight and bulk ... recorded a pair of putouts at home plate August 2 in New York in one of the most bizarre plays of '85 ... Fisk took shortstop Ozzie Guillen's relay throw from the outfield on a ball hit to the gap by Rickey Henderson and tagged out both Bobby Meacham and Dale Berra in succession at home plate ... named Chicago's Co-Player of the Year along with the Cubs' Keith Moreland by the Chicago Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America. 1984: Spent the season hampered by an abdominal muscle pull suffered Opening Day ... forced onto the disabled list once (June 23-July 4) and appeared in only 102 games ... despite limited duty, Fisk still became only the second catcher in White Sox history to hit at least 20 home runs in more than one season with 21 round-trippers (Sherm Lollar was the other backstop to accomplish the feat) ... became only the third player in White Sox history to hit for the cycle and the first to do it at Comiskey Park when he singled, doubled, tripled and homered against Kansas City May 16. 1983: Finished a strong third in balloting for the AL Most Valuable Player Award ... was a driving force in the White Sox Western Division championship ... manager Tony LaRussa moved Fisk to the second spot in the batting order June 15 and Fisk responded by hitting .329 (112-340) ... Fisk hit .319 during the second half (88-176) to raise his season average to .289 ... second on the White Sox in runs (85) and third in home runs (26) ... joined Ron Kittle (35) and Greg Luzinski (32) to set a club three-man, single-season home run record of 93. 1982: Third on the club in steals (17), fourth in RBI (65) and runs (66) ... put together a 12-game hitting streak (July 26-August 9) and hit safely in 23 of 25 games (July 26-August 23), driving in five runs in a game against his former teammates, the Red Sox, July 30 ... made his second straight all-star game appearance as a White Sox player. 1981: Fisk's first season with the White Sox after signing as a free agent produced strike-shortened totals of seven home runs and 45 RBI in 96 games ... the White Sox opened the season April 10 at Boston's Fenway Park, Fisk's home the previous 10 seasons ... in storybook fashion, Fisk slammed a three-run home run in the eighth inning to power Chicago past the BoSox, 5-3 ... in his home debut with the White Sox four days later, Fisk added to the drama by slugging a grand slam home run off Pete Vuckovich to boost the Sox to a 9-3 win over Milwaukee in front of a Comiskey Park record home Opening Day crowd of 51,560 ... caught more games than any AL receiver (95) and had the fewest passed balls (two) in the league ... received The Sporting News Silver Slugger Award as the most productive receiver in the American League and also was named to the UPI All-Star Team. 1980: In his final season with Boston, Fisk re-established himself as an everyday catcher following his injury-plagued '79 campaign ...

led the league with the fewest passed balls (three) for catchers in 100 or more games ... registered his 1,000th major league hit June 1 against Milwaukee, a home run off Rickey Keeton at Boston. 1977: Tied a major league mark with only four passed balls in 151 games ... became one of only six catchers in baseball history to score 100 runs and drive in 100 runs in the same season. 1975: Fisk painted one of the great moments in baseball history with his dramatic, game-winning 12th-inning home run in the sixth game of the World Series against Cincinnati at Boston's Fenway Park ... the homer, for which he supplied body English, has been documented on film and is still being used on the opening segments of network telecasts. 1972: Named AL Rookie of the Year after batting .293 with 22 home runs and 61 RBI ... also led catchers in total chances and was awarded the Rawlings Gold Glove Award.

Minor League Highlights: After missing 1967 due to military service, Fisk spent his first minor league season at Waterloo in '68, where he hit .338 ... played at Pittsfield for most of '69 before making initial big league appearance in September of that year ... spent the 1971 season at Pawtucket and most of '72 at Louisville before being promoted to the Red Sox permanently.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Married Linda Foust ... has daughter Carlyn (September 26, 1970), son Casey (February 20, 1972) and daughter Courtney (February 18, 1976) ... son Casey plays collegiate baseball at Illinois State University in Normal ... Fisk wears No. 72, the reverse of his No. 27 at Boston, because "that was the year my son Casey was born, it was my rookie year in the majors, and it represents a turnaround in my career" ... most valuable player in baseball, basketball and soccer at Charlestown (N.H.) High School before attending the University of New Hampshire ... brother Calvin was a catcher in the Baltimore organization ... oldest daughter Carlyn attends The University of Illinois-Chicago on a volleyball scholarship ... former Boston outfielder Rick Miller is his brother-in-law ... his free agent signing during spring training in 1981 brought instant credibility to the new White Sox ownership group headed by Jerry Reinsdorf and Eddie Einhorn ... acquired the nickname "Pudge" as a youngster in New England.

JACK MCDOWELL 29

Given Name: Jack Burns McDowell
Position: Pitcher
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Height: 6-5 Weight: 180
Opening Day Age: 25
Born: January 16, 1966, Van Nuys, Calif.
Resides: Van Nuys, Calif.
First Pro Contract: White Sox. Sox Acquisition: Selected in first round (fifth overall), June 1987 free agent draft. Major League Service: Two years, 22 days. Contract Status: Signed through 1991.

1990: Made impressive return to the big leagues after an injury-plagued '89 season ... left spring training as the Sox fifth starter but a second-half surge brought him near the forefront of the Sox staff ... became first Sox hurler to win six consecutive games (8/5-9/4) since LaMarr Hoyt, Richard Dotson and Floyd Bannister did so in 1983 ... during the winning streak had 2.22 ERA over 48.2 innings ... matched Greg Hibbard for staff lead in victories with 14 ... led club with four complete games and 165 strikeouts ... had 9-5 ledger after all-star break ... posted career-high 10 strikeouts 7/21 at Baltimore and 9/14 versus Boston ... compiled 9-3 record with 3.17 ERA versus Western Division opponents ... tossed three-hitter 8/20 versus Oakland as Sox won 11-1.

Major League Highlights: One of four No. 1 draft choices on Sox roster in '90 ... did not allow a run in his first 13.1 major league innings. 1988: Rookie struggled in his first full big league season but finished with a respectable 3.97 ERA ... record stood at 5-10 before a strained right hip muscle ended his season August 31 ... became part of history April 29 when he lost a 9-0 verdict to Baltimore at Comiskey Park, where the Orioles snapped a major league record 21-game season-opening losing streak ... first big league complete game came in a 6-2 loss at Cleveland May 17 ... four times he held opponents to one run or less for eight innings or more and was not part of the decision ... blanked Milwaukee on just six hits for nine innings in Sox 1-0, 10-inning win June 10 at Chicago ... shut out Seattle on only six hits for eight innings in Sox 1-0, 11-inning success July 26 at Comiskey Park. 1987: Posted 3-0 record and 1.93 ERA in four September starts with the White Sox ... made major league debut September 15 against the eventual World Series Champion Minnesota Twins at Comiskey Park ... blanked the Twins on four hits through seven innings and earned a 6-2 victory ... followed that effort with another strong outing in a 5-3 win over Seattle September 20 at Comiskey Park ... third outing was even more impressive but he did not get a decision in Sox 2-1, 10-inning win at Oakland September 25 ... hurled seven shutout innings and allowed the pennant-contending Athletics just a pair of harmless singles ... struck out seven and walked three ... left game with Sox ahead 1-0 but a Mark McGwire ninth-inning home run off reliever Bobby Thigpen took the win away from McDowell ... four-start totals showed 15 strikeouts and only six walks in 28 innings ... allowed just six earned runs and one homer in those 28 frames.

Minor League Highlights: 1989: Opened the season with "AAA" Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League ... went to "Rookie" Sarasota on June 8 for rehabilitation of hip problem ... had 2-0 record with 0.75 ERA in four games before returning to the Canadians on July 13 ... owned 5-6 mark over 16 starts at Vancouver. 1987: Broke into professional baseball in August at "Rookie" Sarasota after coming to contract terms with the White Sox ... was 0-1 in two games (one start) in his brief stay at Sarasota ... promoted to "AA" Birmingham August 13 where he played a role in the Barons' Southern League title run ... starting and winning pitcher in Birmingham's first opening-round playoff game against Huntsville, a 15-2 decision.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Single ... received national acclaim after leading Stanford University to the 1987 College World Series title ... earned the victory in the championship game against Oklahoma State June 7 ... in his third year at Stanford owned a 13-5 slate ... three-year Stanford career record, including two trips to the CWS, was 35-13 with a 3.58 ERA ... struck out 337 batters in 392.2 innings for a ratio of 7.7 K's per nine innings pitched ... two-time Pacific-10 All-Conference selection ... holds Stanford's career strikeout record of 337, breaking four-year mark of 315 set by Baltimore's Jeff Ballard ... a native of Van Nuys, Calif., McDowell graduated from Notre Dame High in his hometown ... moonlights as progressive rock recording artist, releasing his first single, "Free Town," during the '90 season.

DAN PASQUA 44

Given Name: Daniel Anthony Pasqua
Position: Outfielder/Designated Hitter
Height: 6-0 Weight: 203
Opening Day Age: 29
Born: October 17, 1961, Yonkers, N.Y.
Resides: Harrington Park, N.J.
First Pro Contract: New York Yankees, selected third round, June 1982 free agent draft. Sox Acquisition: Obtained from Yankees with catcher Mark Salas and pitcher Steve Rosenberg in exchange for pitchers Richard Dotson and Scott Nielsen, November 13, 1987. Major League Service: Five years, 52 days. Contract Status: Signed thru 1991.

1990: Hard-hitting left-hander enjoyed one of the most productive seasons of his career ... established career highs in RBI (58), doubles (27) and triples (three) ... started 90 contests; 50 as designated hitter, 21 in right field and 19 in left ... notched 22 multihit and 17 multi-RBI contests ... hit double digits in home runs for the fifth consecutive season ... .274 batting average ranked fourth among Sox regulars ... launched 10th-inning, game-winning home run off Dave Stewart 6/24 at Oakland ... batted .318 at home and .362 for the month of May.

Major League Highlights: Has 86 career home runs ... averages one roundtripper every 22 at-bats ... needs 77 hits to reach 500 for career. 1989: Had injury-plagued season ... missed 32 games after fracturing right wrist in second contest April 6 at Anaheim ... returned to lineup May 14 at Baltimore, going 2 for 4 with a double and two RBI ... blasted his only Comiskey Park "roofshot" May 30 off Tigers' Frank Tanana, a 445-foot shot ... injured right knee on August 23 and underwent surgery to repair lateral meniscus, missing rest of campaign ... made appearances in 73 games, started 68 (49 in left field, 16 in right and three at DH) ... had a fielding percentage of .993 with only one error ... took to wearing glasses regularly for first time in '89. 1988: First full big-league season and first with the Pale Hose ... topped the squad with 20 home runs ... notched four two-homer games ... notched his only career four-hit game 9/18 at Minnesota with a pair of homers and four RBI ... best month was June when he hit .339 (20-59) with four homers and 11 RBI ... sported 12-game hitting streak (June 17-July 5), collecting 16 hits in 40 at-bats (.400) with four homers and 10 RBI. 1987: Hit 17 home runs and played in 113 games with the Yankees ... opened season with Yankees but was sent to "AAA" Columbus for a brief 23-game stint from June 24-July 19 ... hit three pinch-hit homers, tying him with California's George Hendrick and Texas' Darrell Porter for the American League leadership in that category ... Mike Pagliarulo spoiled Dotson's bid for Comiskey Park's first perfect game with a one-out single in the eighth and, after a Mike Easler double, Pasqua put the Yankees ahead with his three-run homer to the upper deck in right field ... seven of 42 RBI were game-winners. 1986: Opened season at "AAA" Columbus ... recalled by the Yankees May 18 ... hit a two-run homer off Oakland's Eric Plunk May 21 in his first start of the season ... belted two homers the next night at Oakland ... average hovered around .300 for most of the season and finished with a career-high .293 mark ... averaged one homer for every 17.5 at bats, the best on the Yankee squad. 1985: Made big-league debut May 30 when recalled from "AAA" Columbus ... first major-league hit was a home run in his second major-league at-bat May 30 at California off Ron Romanick ... optioned back to Columbus June 17 ... recalled again July 11 ... hit two home runs in the second game versus Texas after his recall July 12 ... both of those blasts were right field upper deck shots at Yankee Stadium.

Minor League Highlights: 1985: Batted .321 over 287 games at "AAA" Columbus of the International League ... cracked 18 home runs and added 69 RBI for the Clippers despite dividing time between Columbus and the Yankees ... named the International League Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player. 1984: Led "AA" Nashville and the Southern League with 33 home runs while driving in 91 runs. 1983: Hit 19 homers and drove in 84 runs at "A" Fort Lauderdale while making one brief stop at "AAA" Columbus. 1982: Named Player of the Year in the Appalachian League in his first pro season at Paintsville ... led league with 16 home runs.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Single ... attended Old Tappan High School (N.J.) where he played football and baseball ... an All-America selection in baseball at William Paterson College in both 1981 and '82.

MELIDO PEREZ 33

Given Name: Melido Perez
Position: Pitcher
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Height: 6-4 Weight: 180
Opening Day Age: 25
Born: February 15, 1966, San Cristobal, D. R.
Resides: San Cristobal, Dominican Republic
First Pro Contract: Kansas City Royals, signed as free agent, July 22, 1983. Sox Acquisition: Obtained with pitchers John Davis, Chuck Mount and Greg Hibbard from Kansas City in exchange for pitcher Floyd Bannister and infielder Dave Cochrane, December 10, 1987. Major League Service: Three years, 34 days. Contract Status: Signed thru 1991 with option for '92.

1990: Carved his name in major league history by hurling his first career no-hitter 7/12 at New York ... labored six innings in rain-shortened contest and struck out nine ... was first Sox no-hitter since Joe Cowley's 9/19/86 at California ... led club and tied for second in the American League with 35 starts ... tied for third in league with three shutouts ... established career high with 13 wins and matched career mark with 197.0 innings pitched ... ranked second on club in strikeouts (161) and opponents batting average among starters (.241) ... struck out 10 batters 5/1 in win versus Texas ... yielded just two hits in seven innings for his second win of the season ... had three-game winning streak 5/27-6/11.

Major League Highlights: Made his major-league debut September 4, 1987 with Kansas City against the White Sox ... won that initial outing, his only win with Royals ... fired one of eight major league no-hitters in 1990. 1989: Led Sox in wins (11) and losses (14) with most starts on staff (31) ... pitched into seventh inning on 11 occasions ... recorded career-high 12 strikeouts June 23 at Milwaukee ... equalled that feat on September 15 versus California while limiting the Angels to two hits ... won four consecutive games from September 3-20, tying career-best streak which he established in 1988 ... led ChiSox staff with 183.1 innings pitched and 141 strikeouts. 1988: Placed sixth in the AL Rookie of the Year balloting after a 12-10 season ... first Sox rookie to post 10 or more wins since Britt Burns and Richard Dotston did so in 1980 ... his 32 starts, 197.0 innings and 138 strikeouts topped the club ... notched first career complete game in a 4-1 win over Toronto May 13 at Comiskey Park ... turned in perfect month of July (4-0, 3.86 ERA) and raised his record to 10-5 ... capped off season with his finest outing October 1 at Kansas City ... blanked his former team on just two hits, walked none and struck out 10 in a 3-0 White Sox win. 1987: Made three starts with the Royals in September and posted 1-1 mark.

Minor League Highlights: 1987: Spent portions of the season at both "A" Fort Myers and "AA" Memphis in the Royals' farm system before making the jump to the big leagues in September ... owned a combined 12-8 record and 3.09 ERA at his Fort Myers and Memphis stops ... walked just 27 batters and fanned 177 in 198.0 innings. 1986: Moved to "A" Burlington and led Midwest League in complete games with 13 in 23 starts ... topped the squad with 153 strikeouts. 1985: Spent the season at "A" Eugene of the Northwest League and led the loop in innings pitched (101.0) and was fourth in strikeouts (88). 1984: Broke into pro baseball at "A" Charleston of the South Atlantic League.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Married Isabel ... has twin daughters Melany and Maleny (November 15, 1989) and son Melido Jr. (January 4, 1991) ... younger brother of New York's Pascual Perez ... attended San Gregorio de Nigua High School in the Dominican Republic.

Flashbacks

Dave DeBusschere was with the White Sox as a pitcher in 1962 and 1963 and he demonstrated that he had major league ability. However, he also happened to be one of the most talented professional basketball players in the nation and decided to make the cage game his career.

The White Sox were the first team to lead off a game with two home runs in the first inning. Boze Berger and Mike Kreevich turned the trick on September 2, 1937 versus Boston at Comiskey Park. The feat has since been duplicated many times.

Major League Service: Four years, 21 days. Contract Status: Signed thru 1993 with options for '94 and '95.

1990: Recorded the best season of any major-league reliever in the history of the game ... on September 3 versus Kansas City, registered 47th save of season breaking Dave Righetti's mark of 46 established in '86 ... re-wrote major-league single-season save record with 57 saves in 65 opportunities ... topped own Sox single-season mark 8/4 versus Milwaukee, notching No. 35 ... surpassed his own previous record set in '88 and '89 ... named AL Pitcher of the Month for May ... made first AL all-star appearance, hurling one scoreless inning ... received Rolaids Relief Man Award ... set record for Rolaids Relief point total (151) ... tied major-league mark for saves in a month with 13 in August ... won three monthly titles; June (10), August, September (12) ... named The Sporting News 1990 Fireman of the Year ... led American League with 77 appearances and 73 games finished ... had an ERA of 1.83 ... figured in 64.9 percent of Sox victories ... ChiSox were 65-12 when he appeared ... registered saves in eight consecutive contests from September 15th through 30th ... struckout 70 batters in 88.2 innings pitched ... closed out campaign with saves in 14 of last 15 opportunities ... enters 1991 with 148 career saves, 18th on major-league all-time list and number one on Sox all-time list.

Major League Highlights: Notched 99th save of career on May 11, 1990 versus Kansas City, surpassing Hoyt Wilhelm as Sox all-time save leader ... earned 40th save of season in game number 118 on August 19, 1990 at Texas, the earliest date and game in which any reliever has reached that plateau ... 1989: Tied his club record of 34 saves set in 1988, topping Bob James' 1985 mark of 32 ... finished second in AL saves to Texas' Jeff Russell (38) ... also finished second to Russell in American League Rolaids Relief Man standings ... picked up five saves in last six outings ... recorded 19 saves in second half of season ... registered saves in 34 of 43 opportunites ... 56 games finished led the Sox pitching staff. 1988: Established White Sox record with 34 saves ... was involved in 39 of the 71 Sox victories, giving him the top percentage (54.9) among all major league relievers ... converted 34 of 43 save opportunities, including 26 of his first 30 ... AL June winner of Rolaids Relief Man Award ... his 68 appearances were most on the Sox staff and second to Milwaukee's Chuck Crim (70) in the AL ... unscored upon in 47 of his 68 outings ... did not fail in consecutive save chances at any time in '88. 1987: Assumed the "closer" role for the Sox in the second half of the season and led the staff with 16 saves while posting an ERA of 2.73 ... the American League winner of the Rolaids Relief Man Award for the month of September with a 4-1 record and seven saves ... garnered his 16 saves in 22 opportunities and was successful in 15 of his last 19 chances ... three wins, one loss and six saves in his last 10 outings ... finished the season tied for sixth in the league in saves despite not earning his second save until July 31 ... opened the season with the Sox as a setup man for late-innings specialist Bob James ... owned a 2-2 record with one save and a 3.51 ERA when optioned to "AAA" Hawaii May 26 ... move was made so Thigpen could experiment as a starting pitcher at Hawaii ... compiled a 2-3 record and 6.15 ERA in nine starts at Hawaii ... fired a pair of complete games and one shutout ... returned to Sox during the all-star break (July 15) ... took over role of "stopper" in late July when James was disabled with a sore right tricep ... allowed just 15 of 49 inherited runners to score and just three of 20 after August 1. 1986: Promoted from "AA" Birmingham to the White Sox August 6 and made his major-league debut that night at Boston ... allowed a pair of earned runs in his first 2.1 innings but did not allow another run in his next 15 outings and his next 28.1 innings ... the scoreless innings streak was the longest on the Sox staff for the season ... recorded saves in seven consecutive opportunities after not being allowed to finish the game in his first save chance ... first major-league save came August 17 at Comiskey Park against Milwaukee ... his first two saves and three of his first four came for Steve Carlton during the lefty's brief stint with the Pale Hose ... Thigpen's first big-league victory was September 12 against California in Chicago with three perfect innings of relief ... ERA dropped to 0.60 before his streak of scoreless innings ended September 20.

Minor League Highlights: 1987: Experimented as a starter at "AAA" Hawaii for a short time ... was 2-3 in nine starts with a 6.15 ERA. 1986: Used exclusively as a starter at "AA" Birmingham in 1986, compiling an 8-11 record with a 4.68 ERA in 25 starts ... recorded 90 strikeouts in 159.2 innings. 1985: Impressed in his first professional season, spending the majority of his year at "A" Niagara Falls ... owned a 2-3 record and a team-high nine saves in 28 appearances ... made just one start ... posted a club best 1.72 ERA and struck out 74 batters in just 52.1 innings of work ... moved to "A" Appleton to help bolster the Foxes' bullpen as they approached the Midwest League playoffs.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Married Keri Keesler ... has son Robert Alan Thigpen (January 30, 1990) ... the White Sox' fourth selection in the June 1985 free agent draft ... played college baseball at Mississippi State where he was primarily an outfielder in addition to spot pitching duty ... helped the Bulldogs reach the College World Series in 1985 ... played collegiately with San Francisco's Will Clark and Texas' Rafael Palmeiro.

The new Comiskey Park is a unique, one-of-a-kind sports facility created to accommodate all White Sox fans. It was designed by the award-winning architectural firm of Hellmuth, Obata, and Kassaboum Sports Facilities Group, which also designed Baltimore's forthcoming Camden Yards.

New Comiskey Park is the first baseball-only stadium to be built since Kansas City's Royals Stadium in 1972. HOK, the general contractor team of Newburg/Meyers, the White Sox and the Illinois Sports Facilities Authority have worked long and hard to develop a facility combining "the best of the old with the best of the new." Their collective goal was to provide White Sox fans with the atmosphere of an old-fashioned park, wrapped around state-of-the-art customer conveniences. The new Comiskey Park is the result of these efforts, capturing all of the tradition and ambiance of the old parks while providing the services expected by today's fan.

Since the groundbreaking on May 7, 1989, workers have labored long and hard to insure the park's opening in April of 1990. The natural grass playing surface faces southeast. It is the only field in the major leagues that does not face the traditional northeast. In doing so, home plate at new Comiskey Park remains at the corner of 35th and Shields.

HISTORY

Hoyt Wilhelm played for the White Sox from 1963 to 1968 and entered Baseball's Hall of Fame in 1985.

FRANCHISE HISTORY

Comiskey and Chicago. Three generations. One hundred years of tradition. The White Sox. The team remains on the South Side today as a testament to the Comiskey Legacy.

Like many other poor and broken victims of the Irish Potato Famine, John Comiskey moved his worldly belongings to Chicago in 1848. He soon distinguished himself in municipal government, first as County Clerk, then later as Democratic Alderman from the old tenth ward. His son Charles was born in 1859 and was later apprenticed to a plumber. John Comiskey, like other men of his generation, believed there was not much good in this street game called baseball. Fortunately, his son had other ideas.

After knocking around the city leagues for a while, playing with the Libertys, Pastimes and Mutuals, young Comiskey took over the first base duties for Chris von der Ahe's St. Louis Browns in the renegade American Association. This upstart league was one of several interlopers challenging the National League for baseball supremacy in the 1880's. The Browns were a rough and tumble outfit and the owner an eccentric millionaire. But they set the baseball world on its ear when they defeated Cap Anson's 1886 White Stockings in the precursor of the modern World Series. Comiskey left St. Louis in 1890 to captain the Chicago entry in the newly formed Player's League. However, the venture was doomed to failure and Comiskey appeared to be at the end of his baseball rope when Byron Bancroft Johnson came calling.

Comiskey was persuaded to invest his meager savings in a new eight-team circuit known as the Western League. Its member teams included Toledo, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Indianapolis and Sioux City. For reasons that are unclear, Comiskey decided to purchase the ailing Sioux City club and transfer it to St. Paul, where a spirited rivalry would develop with Minneapolis. The team became known as the Saints and they finished in the first division of the Western League in four of the five years of Comiskey's stewardship.

The prosperous Western League attracted the attention of the National League moguls. In a brazen attempt to gain autonomy in the Chicago marketplace, Chicago Cub (nee White Stockings) owner James Hart attempted to purchase a franchise to use as a "farm." Johnson would have none of it, for he had designs on the Chicago territory himself.

The American League was actually born in a smoke-filled room in the old Great Northern Hotel over the winter of 1899-1900. Comiskey maneuvered Hart into a corner and secured a promise from the Cub magnate that he would not interfere or block the transfer of the Saints to Chicago. (By terms of existing trade agreements, the Western League was subordinated to the Nationals.) In return, Hart insisted that the team locate south of 35th Street and refrain from using the name of Chicago in its dealings. Comiskey acceded to this timid request, but discreetly told reporters that his team would be called the "White Stockings." Nothing had been stipulated about nicknames.

In their first year the nameless White Stockings won the pennant but they had no one to play in the post-season. Veterans, rookies and other assorted misfits filled out the roster. The fans enjoyed the hustling, if not always polished, style of this club. It was reflected in the attendance.

Flushed with success, Ban Johnson called off all bets and declared his American League to be the second major league. Instead of sacrificing his players to the N.L. draft, Johnson instructed his owners to raid their franchises for top stars. Comiskey recruited Jimmy Callahan, Sandow Mertes and Clark Griffith from the Cubs. The 1901 Sox inaugurated the "official" American League with a second straight pennant. Adding insult to injury was the presence of the "Old Fox," Clark Griffith, who managed the 1901 edition.

Griffith departed the Sox after the 1902 season to accept the managerial reins of the New York Highlanders. Comiskey appointed Jimmy Callahan to guide the club. Callahan was like a prodigal son to Comiskey. He suspended the recalcitrant outfielder at least a half-dozen times for various offenses but each time Callahan was welcomed back into the fold. But he had little to work with in 1903. The team was bereft of talent, and Comiskey was compelled to demote Jimmy in favor of Fielder Allison Jones who had patrolled center field. Jones was a fiery innovator who delivered immediate results. Credited with inventing the "motion" infield and "body twist" slide, Jones fashioned a style of play that would characterize White Sox seasons for the next 60 or so years.

The Jonesmen defined the "Hitless Wonders" era. A total reliance on pitching, defense and speed kept the Sox in contention until the last week of the season from 1904 through 1908. These were years of glory on the south side, where the franchise was interwoven into the fabric of the community and the lives of the Irish immigrants who lived there. Guiding an injury-riddled club with virtually no hitting, Jones captured the only all-Chicago World Series in 1906. His powerful crosstown rivals won 116 games that year. The White Sox were fortunate to win 93, which included a 19-game streak that ultimately put them over the top. It was a club laced with dissension. Jones was a stern taskmaster who frequently came to blows with his players. But he understood talent. Jones made a winner out of erratic Ed Walsh, and he took Nick Altrock and Doc White, a pair of southpaws who had been released by other teams, and inserted them into the starting rotation.

After a heart-breaking near miss in 1908, Jones stepped down to pursue other interests. The "Old Roman" soon realized that the same team minus its leader was good for about fourth place. And that's where the Sox hovered for the next five years. Not even Jimmy Callahan, resurrected from Chicago's semi-pro leagues in 1912, could interrupt this treadmill of .500 baseball. It wasn't until after Comiskey's celebrated World Tour of 1914 that things began to click on the south side. Buoyed by the notoriety the White Sox received while touring the capitals of Europe, the "Old Roman" returned to Chicago to commence the long-awaited rebuilding process. He supplemented a trio of talented youngsters that included Red Faber, Buck Weaver and Ray Schalk with some proven veterans, purchased at great expense from Cleveland and Philadelphia. Princeton-educated Eddie Collins quickly became a fixture at second base. Shoeless Joe Jackson, second only to Cobb as the league's premier batsman, displaced Shano Collins in left field. The stage was set for the second great epoch in Sox history, the Black Sox era.

In 1917, the White Sox won a hundred games for the only time in their history as they routed the New York Giants in the World Series. The victories came easy. There was nothing one-dimensional about this club, and it earned the plaudits of the Chicago press corps. In 1919, the Sox claimed another pennant but they made headlines of another sort when seven of their best players and one substitute were implicated in throwing the World Series to the Cincinnati Reds. The news of a Grand Jury probe hit the newspapers on September 29, 1920, and soon a great team would be left to the ages.

The "Black Sox," as they came to be called, were acquitted in a court of law but were banished from active participation in the game by the baseball establishment. The scandal had far-reaching consequences for the team and its many loyal fans.

The White Sox were destined to wander the desert for the next 30 years. Comiskey attempted to rebuild his club like he always had, purchasing the top stars of the game and some choice rookies from the high minors. It had worked before. . .it would work again. For the 1921 season the "Old Roman" secured the services of Harry Hooper, future Hall of Famer. He bought the entire starting infield of the Salt Lake City team of the P.C.L. with disappointing results. Later in the decade, Willie Kamm, Ted Lyons and Bill Cissell joined the Sox in much the same way. But for every Kamm or Luke Appling to display some flash, there was a Maurice Archdeacon or Mike Cvengros to disappoint. The writers and the fans took pity.

But sentiment and memories of the past could not sustain Comiskey, who took a less active role in the day-to-day management of the club. The "Old Roman" passed away in October 1931, his reputation and integrity forever impugned by the events of 1919-1920.

It was a sad, undeserved fate for the old baseball pioneer. Prior to the scandal Comiskey was one of the most revered figures in Chicago. But in the intervening years his crucial role in the founding of the American League would largely be forgotten.

His son J. Louis and long-time General Manager Harry Grabiner formulated a secret plan to rebuild from the ashes. During the 1932 World Series an agreement was reached with Connie Mack to purchase three of his best players: Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes and Mule Haas. It was a deal reminiscent of the Jackson-Collins acquisition, but still it did not solve the lingering problems.

After mixed results in 1933, Comiskey realized that trades and purchases were not enough. During the mid and late 1930's, the first White Sox farm system was developed. And by decade's end it began to bear some fruit. Luke Appling won the first of two batting titles in 1936. Cigar-smoking Jimmy Dykes took over as manager and proved why he was the best captain of the ship since Jones. Under his tutelage, Vern Kennedy, John Rigney, Bill Dietrich and Thornton Lee proved to be capable starters behind Lyons. "Iron" Mike Kreevich and "Rip" Radcliff made the latter 1930's interesting on the south side. The third-place finish of 1936 was the highest for the ballclub since the lamented days of the Black Sox. Modest achievements to be sure but the Comiskey family had good reason to look to the future with optimism.

The late Warren Brown once remarked in the pages of the American that if the impossible were to happen, it would, in all likelihood, happen to the White Sox. Brown's words proved to be prophetic, especially during the years following the 1936-1937 resurgence. The tragic, career-ending injury to Monty Stratton, the death of J. Lou in 1939, and the disastrous effects of World War II plunged the team into another extended period of losing. Minus the calming presence of J. Lou, the Sox front office struggles magnified the larger failures on the field. Harry Grabiner departed for Cleveland in 1945, and his successor Les O'Connor promptly got the Sox evicted from the American League. These strange circumstances resulted from the improper signing of a Chicago prep pitcher named George Zoeterman. The commissioner fined the defiant Sox G.M. $500.00, which he refused to pay on principle. Then, for about a day, the Sox found themselves evicted from the American League until young Chuck Comiskey stepped in to pay the fine.

This was the peculiar state of affairs the Sox found themselves in when Frank Lane took over for O'Connor at the end of the 1948 season. Lane and young Comiskey struggled through 1949 and 1950 before the fruit bore harvest. The great revival was keyed by the hiring of a young genius from Waxahachie, Texas—Paul Richards. The gambling front office trio with nothing to lose and everything to gain engineered a series of trades that helped usher in the "Go-Go" era. The familiar cry around the ballyard of "C'mon, Luke!" was replaced with the now famous "Go-Go" chant which encouraged such base thieves as Minnie Minoso, Jim Rivera and Luis Aparicio.

They built the club around the spacious contours of Comiskey Park, with an accent on pitching, defense and speed. It was an uncommon style of play in that decade of lead-footed sluggers and teams that lived and died with the home run. Still, it was not enough to carry them over the top. At least not until Al Lopez arrived on the scene at the end of the '56 season. The genial senor took a team that had played in the shadow of the mighty Yankees for most of the decade to their first pennant in 40 years.

In the 1959 World Series, the Sox speedsters were stymied by the Los Angeles Dodgers. And when it was over, there was a feeling around town that the hallmarks of an era were about to pass. During the winter, the new Sox owner Bill Veeck completed a series of trades that changed the complexion of the team. Gone were promising youngsters like Earl Battey, John Callison and John Romano. In their stead were the fading veterans, Roy Sievers and Minnie Minoso. It was a gamble that Veeck believed was worth taking. Since buying out Dorothy Comiskey's 54% of the stock in 1958, the enterprising owner entertained and delighted Sox fans with a variety of zany stunts. But the consequences of those 1960 deals haunted the club for the next two decades.

A year later, with the fortunes of the team sinking, Veeck sold the club to his long-time business associate, Arthur Allyn Jr. The Sox were added to a list of companies under the Artnell Corporation umbrella. In 1962 Chuck Comiskey followed Veeck out the door when he sold his own stock to Allyn. For the first time since the founding of the franchise the name of Comiskey was no longer a factor in policy making.

A few noteworthy trades by General Manager Edwin Short lifted the Sox to three consecutive second-place finishes. The '64 season was particularly frustrating for the Pale Hose. Despite winning their final nine games of the year, they were shaded by the Yankees on the last day of the season. Then Lopez announced his retirement after the '65 campaign. He left a veteran ballclub and a depleted farm system to Eddie Stanky, who made the best out of what he had to work with. The "Brat" nearly stole the pennant in 1967 but it wasn't to be.

The disappointing collapse in the closing days of the 1967 flag chase hastened the inevitable. In 1968, the White Sox finished out of the first division for the first time in 17 years. It wasn't so surprising. The years of neglect on the "AA" and "AAA" levels had taken their toll.

The years 1968-1970 were annums of struggle for a franchise with more than its share of misfortune. Attendance dwindled. The team lost a promising young pitcher named Paul Edmonson in a tragic automobile crash in 1969. And while the team fared miserably on its new infield astroturf, the only rumors that circulated through the press room concerned the imminent move to Milwaukee. John Allyn saved the Sox from this fate when he bought out his brother's interests after the 1969 debacle.

Bill Melton, Carlos May, and Luis Aparicio's comeback were about the only things worth cheering in 1970 when the Sox lost a club-record 106 games. With fortunes at a new low, Allyn reshuffled the deck and brought to Chicago Chuck Tanner and Roland Hemond from the California Angels farm system. In a situation not unlike that of 1948, the "braintrust" masterminded a series of deals that lifted the team to respectability in 1971. Rick Reichardt, Pat Kelly, Mike Andrews and Wilbur Wood keyed the 1971 climb.

Dick Allen's arrival in 1972 turned an otherwise decent ballclub into pennant material. The mysterious Allen was the meal ticket, and he was named Most Valuable Player on the strength of 37 home runs and 113 RBI. The team drew one million for the first time in seven years and Tanner and Hemond walked off with front office awards.

True to the pattern of Sox history, a slump immediately followed. For reasons known only to himself, Allen jumped the team near the end of the 1974 season. The pitching was inadequate and Wilbur Wood was forced to carry the team on his back, much the same way that Ed Walsh had 60 years earlier. By 1975, the dedicated but financially strapped Allyn was forced to put the team on the block again. To his credit, John Allyn resisted offers from a group of Seattle investors in order to complete his sale to Bill Veeck, who galloped into town to save the Sox for Chicago. Veeck had high hopes but he was hamstrung by the League due to his methods of capitalization. As a result, he was not in a position to participate in the high-stakes free agency market that was almost a prerequisite to success.

At the very least, a team needed the resources to retain its players if they were unable to sign someone else. When Richie Zisk and Oscar Gamble departed after the memorable 1977 season, it was an ominous warning that not even Veeck could ensure a winner if the till was barren. With the middle of their lineup gutted, the 1978-1980 editions limped home in fifth place amidst the usual off-the-field controversies.

By 1980, the Sox were on the market again. This time there were interested buyers. When the League turned down a serious bid by Edward DeBartolo of Youngstown, Ohio, Veeck sold his interests to a group of investors headed by Jerry Reinsdorf of the Balcor Corporation and Eddie Einhorn of CBS Sports. With imagination and daring, the duo rebuilt the Sox in relatively short time. Carlton Fisk and Greg Luzinski provided the experience and the muscle, while youngsters like Harold Baines and LaMarr Hoyt gradually developed into stars.

As the Sox prepared to host the 50th Anniversary All-Star Game in 1983, the team surprised the experts by coasting to their first division title since the leagues were geographically realigned in 1969. In the process, the Sox established an American League record by out-distancing their nearest opponent by 20 games.

The revelry of 1983 was accompanied by a bitter playoff loss to Baltimore, a club that had been a haunting nemesis since the 1959 pennant year. In 1984, LaMarr Hoyt failed to duplicate his '83 Cy Young efforts, and the team took a dive despite holding down first place at the All-Star break. Hoyt was traded at season's end for the soon-to-be crowned-Rookie of the Year Ozzie Guillen.

However, controversy seemed to follow this club like a storm cloud. Ken Harrelson left the broadcast booth to replace Roland Hemond as General Manager. Harrelson's legacy was short-lived. After replacing Manager Tony LaRussa with Jim Fregosi, Harrelson bowed out of the picture himself. A period of retrenchment and re-evaluation followed. With an eye on upgrading the stagnant farm system, the White Sox hired Larry Himes to develop the kind of players who would carry the team forward into the 1990's.

The organization-minded Himes quietly went to work while events off the field drew attention away from the players and the game. Early in 1986, Reinsdorf and Einhorn sought assistance from the state in securing necessary funding to build a stadium to replace crumbling and antiquated Comiskey Park. When a proposed stadium site in suburban Addison was voted down in public referendum, the Mayor and the Governor stepped forward to ensure the Sox that the new park would be built across the street from its present location. The agreement that was hammered out was a perilous one, and the inertia of the state legislature through much of 1987 forced the hand of Sox owners, who for a time were courted by civic officials from St. Petersburg, Florida.

As the clock ticked down on the spring session of the General Assembly, the future of the franchise seemed dubious at best. As the eleventh hour approached, all indications pointed toward that long anticipated move out of Illinois, a fate that other ownerships had miraculously avoided on three other occasions.

The Sox fans, who had remained strangely silent during the weeks of endless speculation and debate, finally rallied to the cause. A Civic Center rally and petition drive on June 17, 1988 netted 30,000 signatures. They were presented to local legislators, who took the news down to Springfield. The grass-roots lobbying effort of two fan groups went a long way in convincing many members of the General Assembly that a vote for the stadium was in the state's best interests.

Coincidental with the 78th anniversary of the opening of the existing Comiskey Park, the money for the new Comiskey Park was approved at the stroke of midnight, June 30-July 1. When all the votes were counted, the measure passed by a margin of 30-26 in the Senate and 60-55 in the house. It was a storybook finish with a happy ending. The future of the franchise was assured on May 7, 1989, when, at last, ground was broken for the new stadium directly across the street from old Comiskey.

After a disappointing last place finish in 1989 (the seventh time in franchise history the Sox landed in the cellar) the stage was set for the most improbable rally in club anals. The youth movement which had been carefully nurtured since 1986 bore immediate dividends when Jack McDowell, Robin Ventura, Greg Hibbard and Frank Thomas blossomed into bonafide major league stars. In the final season at "Old" Comiskey Park, the White Sox took over second place on April 29, and challenged the Oakland Athletics for the division title all the way into September. The so-called "experts" said at the beginning of the year that the White Sox would be lucky to escape the cellar — a false prophecy to say the least. With rising expectations, Sox fans can look forward to more of the same in their palatial new home across the street from the House of Memories — fabled Comiskey Park.

SIGNIFICANT DATES

November 20, 1893 ..... At a meeting held in the Grand Hotel Indianapolis, the Western League is formerly organized. Charles Comiskey places in nomination the name of Ban Johnson for President of the league. The Sioux City franchise is awarded to a local businessman named H. H. Drale. A year later Comiskey's contract with the Cincinnati Redlegs expires. At the behest of Ban Johnson, Charles Comiskey purchases the Sioux City team and moves it to St. Paul.

October 11, 1899..... The American League is christened in Chicago, amidst rumors that the St. Paul club will transfer to the south side.

March 21, 1900 ..... An agreement is signed which lands the St. Paul Saints in Chicago. Ban Johnson vows not to allow the franchise to become a "farm" for the National League.

April 2, 1900 ..... Playing as the Chicago team for the first time, the infant White Stockings defeat the University of Illinois 10-9 in Champaign. Roy Patterson is the victor.

April 21, 1900 ..... The Chicago White Sox play their first game in a small wooden ballpark located at 39th and Princeton. The Sox lose to Milwaukee 5-4.

April 22, 1900 ..... The next day they defeat the Brewers 5-3 behind Roger Denzer.

September 12, 1900 ..... The White Sox clinch the 1900 pennant by defeating the Cleveland Blues 12-4 in Chicago.

January 28, 1901 ..... Meeting in closed door sessions in Chicago, the American League drafts a 140 game schedule and declares itself to be a second Major League. The National Agreement expired October 1, which provided Johnson with the only legal loophole he needed.

April 24, 1901 ..... The first "official" American League game is played in Chicago with Roy Patterson defeating Cleveland 8-2.

September 21, 1901 ..... Even though they lose in Philadelphia, the White Sox capture their second consecutive American League pennant. For the season they draw 354,350 fans to the tiny South Side grounds, nearly 150,000 more than their crosstown rivals. Chicago plays a team of A.L. All-Stars led by Nap Lajoie in the postseason "All American Series." The Sox split the games.

September 20, 1902 ..... Jimmy Callahan fires the first Sox no-hitter against the Detroit Tigers. Callahan enjoyed the distinction of hurling the first one-hitter by a Sox pitcher a year earlier.

June 9, 1903 ..... The White Sox are incorporated under Illinois law with $5,000 capital.

May 12, 1904..... Ed Walsh makes his major league debut in Philadelphia, in relief of Doc White.

June 5, 1904 ..... Fielder Jones replaces Jimmy Callahan as manager.

October 2, 1904..... Doc White's 45 consecutive scoreless inning streak is snapped by the New York Highlanders in Chicago.

August 23, 1906..... The White Sox win their 19th successive game, downing the Washington Senators 4-1, behind pitcher Roy Patterson.

October 14, 1906..... The Sox claim the only all-Chicago World Series, defeating the Cubs 8-3 in the finale to win four of the six meetings

October 5, 1908 ..... Ed Walsh wins his 40th game of the season, downing Detroit 6-1. His win total remains a Chicago single-season record.

January 19, 1909 ..... Charles Comiskey purchases a tract of land near the corner of 35th and Shields from Roxanna Bowen, a descendant of former Chicago Mayor John Wenttworth. Later that year, architect Zachary Taylor Davis is commissioned to design a spacious ballpark for the White Sox on the site.

October 6, 1909 ..... Davis submits his proposed ballpark design to Comiskey for approval.

March 17, 1910 ..... The cornerstone of Comiskey Park is laid on St. Patrick's Day.

June 27, 1910 ..... The Sox play for the last time at the 39th St. Grounds, losing to Cleveland 7-2.

July 1, 1910 ..... Comiskey Park opens to a packed house but the Sox lose to St. Louis 2-0.

August 11, 1912 ..... Hall-of-Fame catcher Ray Schalk makes his debut, collecting one single in three at-bats against Phildelphia.

November 13, 1913 ..... The White Sox and New York Giants begin a celebrated world-wide tour which is highlighted by a special exhibition game before King George of England.

June 1, 1914 ..... Red Faber begins his 20-year career with the White Sox by losing 2-1 in a 13-inning decision to the Tigers.

August 20, 1915 ..... The contract of "Shoeless" Joe Jackson is purchased from Cleveland for $31,500.

September 21, 1917 ..... The Sox win the pennant when Red Faber defeats the Red Sox 2-1 in Boston.

September 29, 1917 ..... The White Sox defeat the New York Yankees to win their 100th game of the season, a feat unmatched in club history.

October 15, 1917 ..... Chicago wins its second (and last) World Series title by defeating the New York Giants 4-2.

September 29, 1920 ..... Eight White Sox players are suspended by Charles Comiskey for their part in the 1919 World Series fix.

August 2, 1921 ..... After only two hours of deliberations, the jury in the Black Sox trial returns a verdict of not-guilty, but the players were banned for life anyway by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

April 30, 1922 ..... Rookie pitcher Charlie Robertson hurls a perfect game at Detroit.

July 2, 1923 ..... Future Hall of Fame pitcher Ted Lyons, fresh off the campus of Baylor University, makes his White Sox pitching debut in relief.

October 10, 1924 ..... Charles Comiskey and John McGraw kick off a second European barnstorming tour, taking their clubs to London, Dublin, Glasgow, Berlin, Paris and Rome.

April 20, 1927 ..... The newly-expanded Comiskey Park reopens but the Sox lose to Cleveland 5-4. The new outfield upper deck accommodates 23,200 additional fans.

August 20, 1929 ..... Red Faber Day is celebrated at Comiskey Park.

September 10, 1930 ..... Rookie shortstop Luke Appling, destined for the Hall of Fame, makes his major league debut, collecting one single in four at bats against Boston.

October 26, 1931 ..... Charles Comiskey dies at his summer resort at Eagle River, Wisconsin, leaving an estate valued at $1,529,707 to his son J. Louis.

September 28, 1932 ..... J. Louis Comiskey attempts to rebuild the White Sox by purchasing Jimmy Dykes, Al Simmons, and Mule Haas from the A's for $150,000.

July 6, 1933 ..... The first All-Star game is played in Comiskey Park. The American League prevails behind Lefty Gomez.

May 15, 1934 ..... Jimmy Dykes replaces Lew Fonseca as Sox manager.

September 3, 1936 ..... Luke Appling's club-record 27-game hitting streak is ended by Boston's Wes Farrell.

July 18, 1939 ..... J. Louis Comiskey dies at the age of 56 at the family's Eagle River Resort.

August 14, 1939 ..... The first night game is played in Chicago at Comiskey Park before a crowd of 30,000. The Sox prevail over the Browns by a 5-2 score.

February 29, 1940 ..... A federal judge awards Grace Comiskey, J. Lou's widow, her dower rights and denies the First National Bank of Chicago a petition to seek outside bids to sell the White Sox.

September 15, 1940 ..... Ted Lyons Day is celebrated in Comiskey Park.

March 4, 1941 ..... Grace Comiskey is elected team president and her daughter, Dorothy Rigney, is appointed secretary.

August 13, 1943 ..... Luke Appling collects his 2,000th hit against the Red Sox.

April 28, 1946 ..... Ted Lyons wins his 260th (and final) game of his Major League career. It is a 4-3 decision over the Browns.

May 24, 1946 ..... After a club-record 12 years at the helm, Jimmy Dykes resigns as manager. Ted Lyons is appointed to replace him.

June 8, 1947 ..... Luke Appling Day is celebrated in Comiskey Park.

July 5, 1947 ..... The American League color barrier is broken in Comiskey Park when young Larry Doby is sent to pinch-hit for the Cleveland Indians.

July 18, 1948 ..... Pat Seerey slugs four home runs in one game at Philadelphia.

October 4, 1948 ..... Chuck Comiskey is appointed Vice-President of the White Sox to commence the long-awaited rebuilding process.

October 8, 1948 ..... Frank Lane is recruited from the Big Ten to replace Les O'Connor as General Manager.

July 11, 1950 ..... The All-Star Game returns to Comiskey Park and the National League wins a 4-3, 11-inning decision. Ewell Blackwell is the winning pitcher.

October 1, 1950 ..... Luke Appling collects his final hit in an illustrious career that spans 20 seasons and 2,422 games, all in a White Sox uniform.

May 1, 1951 ..... Minnie Minoso makes his White Sox debut, thereby becoming the first black player to play for the team. In his first plate appearance, Minoso hit a home run against Vic Raschi of the Yankees. In that same game, another rookie of note—Mickey Mantle—also collected his first big league homer.

1951 Season ..... The "Go-Go" era of White Sox baseball dawns as the club draws over one million customers for the first time. In May, the team wins 14 consecutive games.

September 10, 1954 ..... Manager Paul Richards, one of the architects of the "Go-Go" era, resigns to accept a position with the Orioles.

April 23, 1955 ..... The Sox establish numerous club offensive records that have yet to be broken, defeating the A's 29-6 at Kansas City on a rainy, cool day.

December 16, 1955 ..... Following the announcement of General Manager Frank Lane's resignation, Chuck Comiskey, grandson of the "Old Roman," and John Dungan Rigney are elevated to vice-presidents.

October 29, 1956..... Al Lopez replaces Marty Marion as manager.

December 10, 1956 ..... The "grand lady of baseball," Grace Comiskey, dies. Controlling interest in the White Sox is retained by her daughter, Dorothy.

December 20, 1958 ..... Bill Veeck and his partners gain majority control of the White Sox after a lengthy court battle with the Comiskey heirs.

April 22, 1959 ..... In one of the strangest games in Sox annals, the club scores 11 runs on one hit in the seventh inning against the hapless A's.

August 21, 1959..... Nellie Fox Day is celebrated at Comiskey Park.

September 22, 1959..... The Sox end a 40-year pennant drought by clinching the American League title at Cleveland. The flag is won on the strength of pitching, defense, and speed, all hallmarks of the "Go-Go" era.

June 10, 1961 ..... Due to failing health and other considerations, Bill Veeck sells his White Sox holdings to his former business associate, Arthur Allyn, Jr. A year later, Chuck Comiskey sells his minority interest in the team to Allyn.

July 22, 1962..... Floyd Robinson collects six singles in six at-bats against Boston.

1963 Season..... Allyn announces his intention to build a private club, called the "Coach and Nine," across the street from Comiskey Park. Later, he seeks assistance from business groups to finance a new domed stadium south of Chicago's Loop. However, both projects are scrapped for lack of interest.

November 11, 1965..... Al Lopez ends his long successful run as Sox manager with the announcement of his resignation.

1968-69..... To bolster sagging attendance, the White Sox play "home" games at County Stadium in Milwaukee against each A.L. opponent.

1969 Season..... Astro-turf is installed in the Comiskey Park infield. In 1976 it is replaced with natural grass.

September 24, 1969..... Arthur Allyn, Jr. sells the White Sox to his brother, John, thereby putting to rest speculation that the Sox will depart for Milwaukee.

July 19, 1970..... Luis Aparicio Day is celebrated in Comiskey Park.

September 2, 1970..... Following their worst season in history, General Manager Stu Holcomb hires Roland Hemond to rebuild the franchise.

September 30, 1971..... Bill Melton becomes the first Sox player to win the A.L. home run title when he connects against Milwaukee's Bill Parsons on the last day of the season, Melton's 33rd round-tripper of the campaign.

September 24, 1972..... Dick Allen blasts his 37th home run, a club record that is equalled by Carlton Fisk in 1985.

May 20, 1973..... A Sunday doubleheader against the Twins attracts 55,555, a Comiskey Park attendance record.

December 10, 1975 ..... The American League owners reverse their former position and accept Bill Veeck's bid to purchase the White Sox from John Allyn.

July 3, 1976..... The Sox play Texas and lose 3-0 in the first morning game in Comiskey Park history. The first pitch was delivered at 10:30 a.m.

1977 Season..... The White Sox set an attendance record, as the club records a record 192 home runs. The '77 Sox eventually are affectionately dubbed the "South Side Hitmen."

July 12, 1979..... Bill Veeck's celebrated "Disco Demolition Night" results in a forfeit to the Detroit Tigers.

August 2, 1979..... Tony La Russa replaces Don Kessinger as manager.

August 22, 1980..... Bill Veeck agrees to sell the White Sox to Edward DeBartolo of Youngstown, Ohio but the league denies the sale because of DeBartolo's racing holdings.

January 29, 1981 ..... Jerry Reinsdorf, in concert with friend, business associate and law school classmate Eddie Einhorn, heads a group that purchases the club from Bill Veeck.

July 6, 1983..... Comiskey Park plays host to the golden anniversary All-Star Game 50 years to the day the initial mid-summer classic also was held at Comiskey Park. The American League prevails 13-3. Fred Lynn's grand slam is the highlight of the day.

September 17, 1983 ..... The Sox clinch the AL West Division title at Comiskey Park against Seattle, winning the division by a whopping 20 games, a major league record. A Chicago city attendance record is established as the team surpasses two million fans.

May 10, 1984..... The Sox win the longest game in American League history 5-4 against Milwaukee at Comiskey Park. Harold Baines ends the two-day, 25-inning marathon with a home run.

September 26, 1984 ..... Despite a losing season, the Sox close out the year with a record attendance of 2,136,988, thereby becoming the first Chicago team to surpass the two million mark in consecutive years.

July 1, 1985..... The 75th anniversary of Comiskey Park, the nation's oldest ball park, is celebrated.

August 4, 1985..... Tom Seaver wins his 300th game in dramatic fashion before a packed house in Yankee Stadium.

June 20, 1986 ..... Tony LaRussa is fired as Sox manager.

October 29, 1986..... Larry Himes replaces Ken Harrelson as General Manager.

December 5, 1986 ..... The Illinois General Assembly passes funding legislation to build a new home for the White Sox across the street from Comiskey Park.

July 22, 1987..... Harold Baines belts a home run off of Baltimore's Mike Boddicker, which shatters Bill Melton's career team record of 154.

October, 1987..... The Illinois State Senate confirms four gubernatorial appointees to the Illinois Sports Facility Authority. The vote, in concert with the three previous mayoral appointments, finalizes formation of the body charged with the development of the new White Sox stadium.

June 30, 1988 ..... At the stroke of midnight, the Illinois General Assembly approves an amended stadium bill ensuring that the club will remain in Chicago. The new stadium is scheduled for a 1991 opening.

May 7, 1989..... Mayor Richard M. Daley and Governor James Thompson are among the celebrities who participate in groundbreaking ceremonies for the New Comiskey Park.

July 17, 1989..... Catcher Carlton Fisk notches his 2,000th career hit against New York at Comiskey Park.

August 20, 1989..... Following his trade to Texas, the team retires Harold Baines' uniform #3. Baines joins Frank Robinson and Phil Niekro as the only still-active players to have their uniform numbers retired.

April 9, 1990 ..... The final opening day takes place at "Old" Comiskey Park with the White Sox edging the Brewers, 2-1.

July 1, 1990 ..... Comiskey Park celebrates its 80th birthday and New York pitcher Andy Hawkins hurls a no-hitter—only to lose to the White Sox, 4-0.

July 11, 1990 ..... The White Sox celebrate "Turn Back the Clock Day" at Comiskey Park in honor of the 1917 World Series Champion White Sox. Players, coaches and park personnel dress in period costumes and ticket prices are reduced.

August 17, 1990 ..... Carlton Fisk sets the major-league record for home runs by a catcher, cracking No. 328 off Charlie Hough at Texas. Fisk surpasses Johnny Bench's previous mark of 327.

September 3, 1990 ..... Bobby Thigpen sets a major-league single-season record for saves with his 47th versus the Royals at Comiskey Park. Thigpen increases his record total to 57 by season's end.

September 29, 1990 ..... The last night game at "Old" Comiskey Park is played with the White Sox downing Seattle, 5-2.

September 30, 1990 ..... The final game at "Old" Comiskey Park takes place and the White Sox edge Seattle, 2-1.

Dennis Lamp began a personal string of scoreless innings that extended into the 1985 ALCS, tossing three scoreless frames ... Britt Burns' heart-rendering performance in the last game is wasted.

COMISKEY PARK HISTORY

The grand dame of American stadia closed its doors after the 1990 season, giving way to an attractive, spacious new facility that will embody the best of the old and the new in a traditional neighborhood setting. At the same time the legacy of Charles Comiskey will continue with the new park bearing the name of the family that is synonymous with baseball in Chicago.

It began in 1900 when the fledgling White Sox set up shop in a small, uncomfortable wooden stadium at 39th and Wentworth. The creaking grandstand was once home to the Chicago Wanderers Cricket Club but it had long since been abandoned. Comiskey secured loans from the First National Bank of Chicago to renovate the park but in its heyday the seating never exceeded 7,500. As early as 1903 the energetic Sox owner considered the ways and means of relocating his club to new headquarters. The search lasted nearly six years before Comiskey was able to purchase the property he considered truly ideal — a tract of land east of 35th and Wentworth in the Canal Trustees Subdivision. The property once belonged to Mayor John Wentworth, but it had fallen into a state of neglect during the intervening years. A truck farm and a junkyard occupied the site. After months of negotiation, Charles Comiskey bought the grounds from Roxanna Bowen on January 19, 1909 and began to formulate plans for a modern concrete and steel stadium, the third to be erected in the United States.

To build the "Baseball Palace of the World" Comiskey hired an up-and-coming young architect, Zachary Taylor Davis, who went on to build Weeghman Park (better known as Wrigley Field) in 1914. The Comiskey Park commission was the first of his distinguished career and it established Davis as the foremost expert on the "kite-shaped" baseball park. Davis submitted his first sketch on October 6, 1909.

Actual groundbreaking took place five months later, when Davis laid in place a "lucky" Irish-green brick on St. Patrick's Day 1910. It was a day of celebration and revelry on the storied South Side of Chicago. But to complete the task of construction before the July 1, 1910 deadline required the extra mile — and a large dose of Yankee ingenuity. Setting back the timetable was an unexpected strike of the structural steel workers. But it got done on time. Comiskey Park opened to rave reviews on July 1. It was a day of gala celebrations on the South Side. Brass bands, an ornate downtown parade, and the well wishes of many local celebrities highlighted the calendar of events, but the Sox dropped a 2-0 decision to the St. Louis Browns.

The notable feature of Comiskey Park—upper decked from first to third base, with two detached grandstands in right and left — was its massive size. Baseball had never seen anything like this before. Most antiquated 19th century ballparks were intimate, cozy structures dwarfed by the imposing Comiskey Park. The stadium was likened to the ancient Roman Coliseum, which suited Chicago's "Old Roman" to the tee. The original dimensions were 363 down the lines and 420 to dead center, where an immense wooden scoreboard loomed over the field.

The next decade brought continued success — and more overflow crowds. As per the usual customs of the day, fans were often permitted to stand in roped off sections of the outfield during big events like title fights or testimonial days for ballplayers. On occasion Comiskey would construct temporary platforms and chairs to accommodate the extra crowds.

The Old Roman was understandably concerned about this. Insurance rates naturally went up, and the corresponding difficulties posed by fans standing on the field were evident on April 26, 1925, when the crowd swarmed past the rope forcing the umpire to declare a forfeit. Comiskey addressed this situation by ordering construction of an upper deck in 1927. The first major renovation cost $100,000, almost the amount it cost to build the park in 1910. The outfield grandstand connected to the seats down in the corners for the first time, and a special bleacher section was constructed in center field. Scoreboards were transferred to the outfield walls, and the new upper deck seated an additional 23,000 fans. Comiskey Park was even more cavernous, at a time when the team's fortunes were in a tailspin. Between 1927 and 1951, the year of the "Great Revival," there were only a handful of times when those seats were filled.

Oddly enough, the upper deck was better suited to football than baseball. The sightlines from the upper deck were ideal for "bird watching," Chicago Cardinal-style, that is. The boys of winter played in Comiskey Park in 1922, 1925, 1929-30 and then continuously from 1939-58. In 1947 the Cards won the NFL title playing in frozen Comiskey Park.

After 1927 there were few structural renovations made to Comiskey Park. A public address system and distance markings were added in 1935. Anchored seats were in place for the 1941 season. A press box for the Cardinals was added in 1948. Lighting was installed in 1939 and the first electronic scoreboard was constructed in center field in 1951. The "Chesterfield" board would light up with each Sox base hit.

In 1960 Bill Veeck decided that "Chesterfield! It's a Hit" was too sedate for his tastes. With the help of advertising money, he built the first "exploding" scoreboard in baseball, one that belched smoke and rockets for each home run slugged by a White Sox. The "Monster" stood for 21 years, replaced by the current DiamondVision board in 1982. At various times the ownerships tinkered with the auspicious dimensions of the park. Chicken wire fencing was strung across the perimeter of the warning track in 1949 and again in 1969. The infield was moved closer to the walls in 1934 and 1983 with mixed results. Usually it was the opposition and not the Sox who profited from these changes.

Astroturf, or "Sox Sod," was installed in the infield for 1969. It was a first for the American League. But when artificial surfaces fell out of favor by the mid-1970's, Bill Veeck ordered its removal. The picnic area was another Bill Veeck innovation, built in 1960 underneath the left field stands. For the first time fans were permitted a bird's eye view of the field, exactly the same as the left fielder.

The 1970's and 1980's bore witness to several more cosmetic changes. The color schemes of the seating went from red to blue to green. In 1977 Bill Veeck painted a multi-colored pattern in the upper deck of left field. No reason was given but it provided for lively debate in the stands. What could this mean? To this day, no one really knows for sure.

Picnic areas were constructed under the stands in right field to accommodate private parties. In 1982 new dugouts, wider aisles, front office facilities and contoured plastic seating for the fans' comfort in the reserved sections were added. Comiskey Park, when all was said and done, was a patchwork quilt of ideas, reflecting the personality and temperament of its various owners. The signatures of Charles Comiskey, his heirs, Bill Veeck, the Allyns and Eddie Einhorn and Jerry Reinsdorf are written all over this fine old palace.

Unfortunately, the deteriorating infrastructure mandated that a new facility be erected. Beginning in 1986, steps were taken to assure the future of the franchise in Chicago. Funding legislation was passed by the Illinois General Assembly in November 1986. The agreement was signed during a special "home plate" ceremony in old Comiskey Park on January 19, 1987. But it would take another two years of sensitive negotiation before the first spade of dirt was turned on the land that would eventually house the new Comiskey Park. Indeed, the fate of the stadium bill hinged on a few votes of balky legislators in the General Assembly. On the final roll-call of the 1988 legislative session the amended bill passed by a scant nine votes.

The way was finally cleared for the construction of the new Comiskey Park. In January 1989, the adjacent buildings occupying the stadium site were cleared. Official groundbreaking took place on May 7. Governor James Thompson, whose tireless efforts helped keep the White Sox on the South side where they belong, was the keynote speaker on a day not unlike that of March 17, 1910 — when the vision of Charles Comiskey and Zachary Taylor Davis was fulfilled.

The new stadium, designed by the award-winning architectural firm of Hellmuth, Obata and Kassabaum (HOK) Sports Facilities Group, is the first baseball-only structure to be erected since 1972, when Royals Stadium in Kansas City opened up. New Comiskey Park promises to capture the essence of old-time baseball with modern up-to-date conveniences and no obstructing vertical posts!

Oddly enough, the upper deck was better suited to football than baseball. The sightlines from the upper deck were ideal for "bird watching," Chicago Cardinal-style, that is. The boys of winter played in Comiskey Park in 1922, 1925, 1929-30 and then continuously from 1939-58. In 1947 the Cards won the NFL title playing in frozen Comiskey Park.

After 1927 there were few structural renovations made to Comiskey Park. A public address system and distance markings were added in 1935. Anchored seats were in place for the 1941 season. A press box for the Cardinals was added in 1948. Lighting was installed in 1939 and the first electronic scoreboard was constructed in center field in 1951. The "Chesterfield" board would light up with each Sox base hit.

In 1960 Bill Veeck decided that "Chesterfield! It's a Hit" was too sedate for his tastes. With the help of advertising money, he built the first "exploding" scoreboard in baseball, one that belched smoke and rockets for each home run slugged by a White Sox. The "Monster" stood for 21 years, replaced by the current DiamondVision board in 1982. At various times the ownerships tinkered with the auspicious dimensions of the park. Chicken wire fencing was strung across the perimeter of the warning track in 1949 and again in 1969. The infield was moved closer to the walls in 1934 and 1983 with mixed results. Usually it was the opposition and not the Sox who profited from these changes.

Astroturf, or "Sox Sod," was installed in the infield for 1969. It was a first for the American League. But when artificial surfaces fell out of favor by the mid-1970's, Bill Veeck ordered its removal. The picnic area was another Bill Veeck innovation, built in 1960 underneath the left field stands. For the first time fans were permitted a bird's eye view of the field, exactly the same as the left fielder.

The 1970's and 1980's bore witness to several more cosmetic changes. The color schemes of the seating went from red to blue to green. In 1977 Bill Veeck painted a multi-colored pattern in the upper deck of left field. No reason was given but it provided for lively debate in the stands. What could this mean? To this day, no one really knows for sure.

Picnic areas were constructed under the stands in right field to accommodate private parties. In 1982 new dugouts, wider aisles, front office facilities and contoured plastic seating for the fans' comfort in the reserved sections were added. Comiskey Park, when all was said and done, was a patchwork quilt of ideas, reflecting the personality and temperament of its various owners. The signatures of Charles Comiskey, his heirs, Bill Veeck, the Allyns and Eddie Einhorn and Jerry Reinsdorf are written all over this fine old palace.

Unfortunately, the deteriorating infrastructure mandated that a new facility be erected. Beginning in 1986, steps were taken to assure the future of the franchise in Chicago. Funding legislation was passed by the Illinois General Assembly in November 1986. The agreement was signed during a special "home plate" ceremony in old Comiskey Park on January 19, 1987. But it would take another two years of sensitive negotiation before the first spade of dirt was turned on the land that would eventually house the new Comiskey Park. Indeed, the fate of the stadium bill hinged on a few votes of balky legislators in the General Assembly. On the final roll-call of the 1988 legislative session the amended bill passed by a scant nine votes.

The way was finally cleared for the construction of the new Comiskey Park. In January 1989, the adjacent buildings occupying the stadium site were cleared. Official groundbreaking took place on May 7. Governor James Thompson, whose tireless efforts helped keep the White Sox on the South side where they belong, was the keynote speaker on a day not unlike that of March 17, 1910—when the vision of Charles Comiskey and Zachary Taylor Davis was fulfilled.

The new stadium, designed by the award-winning architectural firm of Hellmuth, Obata and Kassabaum (HOK) Sports Facilities Group, is the first baseball-only structure to be erected since 1972, when Royals Stadium in Kansas City opened up. New Comiskey Park promises to capture the essence of old-time baseball with modern up-to-date conveniences and no obstructing vertical posts!

Rich Lindberg is a Chicago author who doubles as the White Sox team historian.

*Led American League

Milestone

Carlton Fisk's record 332 home runs as a catcher have been at the mercy of 213 pitchers. Hall of Famer Jim Palmer leads the distinguished pack with seven roundtrippers. Glen Abbott and Bruce Hurst yielded six, while Jim Clancy and former White Sox hurler Wilbur Wood served up five. Pudge has homered off 11 Cy Young award winners, three Most Valuable Players and 15 pitchers who have tossed no-hitters.

1901 AL Anniversary Flashbacks

During his seven-year career with the Sox, pitcher Roy Patterson won 82 and lost 70. Patterson had many fine outings, but May 5, 1901 was not one of them. Patterson went the distance in a 21-7 loss to the Milwaukee Brewers. He surrendered 25 hits, 21 runs (10 earned) and two walks, in what must surely rank as a record in pitching futility.

With the World Series still two years away, the AL Champion White Sox squared off against a team of All-Stars captained by Nap Lajoie in the postseason. The Sox played the "All-Americans" to a four-game draw.

William Ellsworth Hoy, the fleet-footed deaf-mute outfielder celebrated in the recent stage play "The Signal Season of Dummy Hoy," paced all 1901 AL batsmen with 86 walks.

White Sox pitching and hitting leaders for the championship 1901 season: average, Fielder Jones, .340; home runs, Herm McFarland and Billy Sullivan, four; runs batted in, Sandow Mertes, 98; wins, Clark Griffith, 24; ERA, Jimmy Callahan, 2.42; strikeouts, Roy Patterson, 127.

MINOR LEAGUE HIGHLIGHTS

The White Sox player development system enjoyed yet another productive year in 1990. Two of the four full-season minor league affiliates qualified for postseason play, with the other two missing out on the last week of their seasons. In addition, the organization saw its first round draft picks from the last four years play together on the major league level in '90 (Jack McDowell '87, Robin Ventura '88, Frank Thomas '89, and Alex Fernandez '90).

Thomas, the former Auburn University slugger, became the second member of the White Sox organization to be named Baseball America's Minor League Player of the Year (Ron Kittle, 1982). The 6-5, 240-pound made his mark at "AA" Birmingham, batting .323 with 18 home runs, 71 RBI and 112 walks in the tough Southern League. His exploits at Birmingham earned him an August 2 promotion to Chicago where he continued his hot hitting (.330, 7 HR, 31 RBI).

Along with the first round picks, ten other players who were minor leaguers in '89, made contributions to the major league club in 1990. The four full-season minor league clubs finished with a combined record of 291-266 (.522) with three of the four above the .500 mark.

The "A" South Bend White Sox owned organization's best record (77-57) and were crowned second-half champions of the Midwest League's Northern Division. With a three-game sweep of first-half champion Madison, South Bend captured the division title and advanced to the league finals for the second consecutive year. Also claiming a second-half championship by virtue of its 40-33 mark was Birmingham, which owned an overall record of 77-67 (.535). "AAA" Vancouver narrowly missed a playoff berth in the Pacific Coast League, posting a 42-30 first-half ledger and finishing one-half game behind first-place Tacoma. The "A" Sarasota White Sox of the Florida State League struggled with a 63-75 overall record despite a resilient 36-33 second half. The two short season teams finished wtih a combined slate of 52-89 but showed great promise for the future.

Flashbacks

Only three White Sox players have hit for the cycle, one of baseball's most unusual feats. Catcher Ray Schalk was the first to do so on June 22, 1922 at Detroit. Jack Brohamer also accomplished the feat on September 24, 1977 at Seattle. The only White Sox player to hit for the cycle at Comiskey Park is Carlton Fisk, who did so on May 16, 1984 versus Kansas City.

In 1958, Nellie Fox struck out a miniscule 11 times in 623 at-bats, which is the best single-season strikeout ratio (one every 56.6 at-bats) in White Sox history. Fox still holds the major league record for most seasons leading the league in fewest strikeouts (11, 1952-62).

Fox, who the first White Sox player to win an AL Most Valuable Player award in 1959, also holds the Sox record for consecutive games played (798).

Former White Sox catcher Sherm Lollar is one of only four players in baseball history to get two hits in one inning twice in one game, on April 23, 1955 versus Kansas City in the second and sixth innings.
